Monday 11th June Theme: All Fathers

The Joy of Love: Pope Francis

A father helps the child to perceive the limits of life, to be open to the challenges of the wider world, and to see the need for hard work and strenuous effort. A father possessed of a clear and serene masculine identity who demonstrates affection and concern for his wife is just as necessary as a caring mother. (175)

The relationship of a father with his children is very different from the relationship of a mother. But it is equally important for the development of children as they grow into adulthood.

As a child grows from baby to young child and beyond the mother is very often seen as the main carer. The place of the father can continue to be secondary unless real efforts are made for him to become involved in all that is necessary for the physical, emotional and spiritual development of their child. Things are better now than in former times in this regard but a lot more needs to be done by both mother and father to help him to be a full father of his children.

Reflection

"No kingdom that is divided within itself can stand", said Jesus.

I myself am a divided kingdom.
I am divided within myself.

"The good which I want to do, I don't do; the evil which I want to avoid, I find myself doing".

This is how St. Paul puts it.

There exists within me forces that will do their utmost to drag me down, so that my life is like a field in which wheat and weeds grow side by side, struggling for supremacy.

Who will save me from myself? Who will keep my kingdom from falling down? Only Jesus, who overpowered Satan, will heal the division within me, and help me to take complete possession of my own house.

Then I shall be free, united, and at peace. Perhaps I shall never gain the complete victory in this life.

Enough that I keep up the fight, and that final victory is achieved in the life that is to come.

Flor McCarthy, S.D.B.
